UNKEPT

THE SECRET FILM BY EMILY COOK

Unkept' is an oddly comic journey though human process, a creative social experiment based on genuine deep, dark secrets of fallible mortal minds. Over several months, an incognito pool of secrets was collected and randomly assigned to actors so that they might deliver them to the camera. In places, this created a magical and thought provoking juxtaposition between the secrets, the actors and the conceptualisation itself. The secrets have been told, yet paradoxically, they remain secret.

Alongside accomplished Singer/Songwriter Anna Goldsmith, more than forty-four Manx actors and creatives featured in this extraordinarily dexterous film.

“This film gifts its audience with a comfort, in knowing that we share the weakest of human flaws, insecurity”

“Unkept is an oddly comic journey though human process... Though melancholy in places, it is expressive of compassion and reality...There is something fresh about it”

“Words fail, here I am, face-to-face with a film that really does deserve a remarkable amount of credit”

“Channeling inquisitiveness for the human condition, psychology and faith through the filming of everyday people with a magical twist”

“We have all been afraid of being judged on personal ideology and opinion”
